SHARING CHRIST’S LOVE, PATIENCE, AND KINDNESS WITH OTHERS

Homilists sometimes suggest beginning these descriptive sentences with your own name, as a form of examination of conscience. “John is patient, John is kind.” But this can lead to discouragement. What immediately leaps to mind is the many situations that called for patience, kindness, or endurance—but we came up short. “John never fails”? Not me! Maybe a better approach would be to plug in the name of Jesus instead your name. Jesus is patient. Picture him pausing and waiting until the man slowed down by blindness makes his way forward to ask for healing. Jesus is kind. Imagine him taking the hand of the man who can neither hear nor speak and leading him away from the crowd to heal him in a more intimate setting. Jesus never fails. See him, wearied from ministering all day, still tending to the multitudes who come asking for help. Now, realize one more thing. Jesus

Christ lives in you through your baptism. You have been given a share of his risen life—and his unconditional love. This means that you can draw on his stores of patience and kindness whenever you need to. Pope Francis often reminds us that every command in Scripture is accompanied by a promise. Yes, God calls us to be loving, and this passage spells out what that love looks like. It’s a high standard. But we are also gifted in Christ with the power to love as he loves, to be patient as he is patient, and to share his kindness with everyone around us. It’s one of the most encouraging paradoxes of the Christian life: the more inadequate you feel, the more effective you can be. It doesn’t take much to plunge your hands and heart into Jesus’ storehouse of love and find everything you need. “Jesus, thank you for making your home in me. Help me today to extend your kind and patient love to everyone I encounter today.”

GOSPEL REFLECTION

God formed us in the womb and knows each of us intimately. God calls each of us and continues to shape us in Christ to be living icons of God’s presence. Any parent knows children remember our actions much more than our words. How can I proclaim the Gospel in my actions? Does my life express the joy and mercy of the Gospel? How may I seek the Lord’s presence in order to be a more faithful disciple?
