CATECHETICAL SUNDAY is celebrated today, September 21st, in parishes across the United States. Catechetical Sunday is an opportunity to reflect on the role that each person plays, by virtue of Baptism, in handing on the faith, being a witness to the Gospel, and rededicating themselves to this mission as a community of faith. The theme for 2014 Catechetical Sunday is "Teaching about God's Gift of Forgiveness". Find more info. at the Council of Catholic Bishops website www.usccb.org cated, tireless service qualifies them instantly for higher pay, higher rank, and greater privilege and prestige. It is precisely at moments like this that we must humbly acknowledge that we are like those eleventh-hour workers. Not one of us deserves the blessings that God has prepared for us. All our good works give us no claim upon God. The word "entitlement" does not exist in the vocabulary of the Kingdom of God.

GOSPEL REFLECTION
Today's Gospel teaches us that God's kingdom is for all who would follow Him. In the parable those who were called early were upset that those who were called late received the same wage, which is salvation. What are your personal prejudices? Pray for the strength to overcome these.

In today's parable, why should such generosity be condemned as injustice? This idea finds its roots and deepest meaning in the Old Testament understanding of God the Creator who is good and generous to all who turn to him. This is the God in whom Jesus believed and lived, but in the person of Jesus, the divine compassion, the divine mercy, the divine goodness surpassed the divine justice. Therefore all who follow Jesus as his disciples and friends much imitate this extraordinary compassion and lavish generosity and never question, deny it or begrudge it. Perhaps many of us feel strongly with the disgruntled workers. How often have we known whimsical employers who have compensated lazy or problematic workers far too generously, rather than acknowledging the faithful, dedicated day-in day-out workers? Some may grumble and claim that their long, dedi-
